I know the difference between expensive travel and the truly luxurious

Splish, splash, skylines, scenery. Who doesn't love a rooftop pool? Hotels certainly love them, and they're using them to crown new developments from Nashville to New York City to Stockholm. They don't all have city views—some look out over colorful fishing boats or high mountain peaks—but they're all stunners.

Hotel Giardino Marling HOTEL GIARDINO MARLING

Giardino Marling, Italy

At this new wellness-oriented hotel in the Merano Valley in the far northeast of Italy, the rooftop saltwater pool is surrounded on three sides by the manicured lawns and bright flowers of a park. The fourth is open to the sky and the vista: the craggy peaks of the Dolomite Mountains.
